Lewis Declares He'll Quit as C.I.O. Chief If Roosevelt's Elected Again

BACKS WILLKIE AS FRIEND OF LABORING MAN

UNION AIDES REVOLT

Many CIO Affiliates and Leaders Repudiate Move; Some Support It.

By LYLE C. WILSON
(UP Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON—John L. Lewis' political partnership with President Roosevelt was pulverized into ruin today by Lewis' speech scarcely matched in this political year for coldly phrased denunciation, calling for the election of Wendell L. Willkie and staking his presidency of the Congress of Industrial Organizations on it.

During the night, the leaders of the labor movement headed by Lewis, which supported Mr. Roosevelt in 1936, were choosing between Lewis and the president. Many CIO affiliates and their leaders repudiated their labor chief. Allan S. Haywood, CIO's national organization director, was a notable exception and he said he spoke for a number of regional directors and organizers.

The complete text of John L. Lewis' radio address endorsing Wendell L. Willkie for president, will be found on Page 6.

Willkie said he was "glad to have the help of Mr. Lewis—a valiant defender of labor who puts his country above all."

"Sustain me now, or repudiate me," Lewis told his labor following. He promised that if Mr. Roosevelt were elected he would accept the result of a CIO vote of lack of confidence and retire from the presidency at the convention which meets in Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 18.

Lewis based his speech on the charge that Mr. Roosevelt would lead the country into war. Mr. Roosevelt, he said, is "an amateur, ill-equipped practitioner in the realm of political science."

He refused to reveal whether he would campaign further, but it was reported that he would speak in Michigan and one or

Directors to Meet At Westinghouse Plant Monday

The board of directors of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company will meet in Mansfield Monday for their regular session for the first time since the Westinghouse plant was established here.

The regular monthly meetings of the board usually are held in New York City. The decision of the directors to hold their meeting in Mansfield and to visit the company's plant here indicates their interest in the Mansfield Merchandising division operation, company officials here said.

A. W. Robertson, chairman of the board, will preside at the meeting, which is set for 11 a. m. Other directors who will be present are:

Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman

H. L. Goemann Dies

Henry L. Goemann, above, civic leader and organizer of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce, died today at General hospital. He had been afflicted with a heart condition for some time.

DEATH CLAIMS CIVIC LEADER

H. L. Goemann, 77, Organizer Of Chamber of Commerce, Succumbs at Hospital.

The city of Mansfield lost one of its greatest friends with the death early this morning of Henry Louis Goemann, 77, organizer of the present Chamber of Commerce and a figure of national importance.

His death came unexpectedly at 5 a. m. today at General hospital where he had been taken Tuesday afternoon for rest and care. Although he had suffered from a heart condition for three years, he had been about his daily business until last Saturday.

Although he had been a resident of Mansfield for less than a quarter of a century, few men had given more to the business development of the city since the turn of the century.

Mr. Goemann was born in Cincinnati June 5, 1863 and it was in that city that he had started his chamber of commerce work. He joined when he was 21 years old, had been a member of some city commerce association continuously since. He is believed to be one of the oldest members in the state in point of service.

In 1916 he re-organized a Mansfield Chamber of Commerce and served as president for four years. For the past ten years he had been counsellor from the local Chamber to the United States chamber of commerce and had gone to every annual meeting in Washington.

In May, 1934, when A. D. Caddell resigned as secretary of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Goemann took over those duties for five months, serving without remuneration. He had served on a number of important Chamber committees, including national legislation, gram and transportation. In 1933, as local representative of the bond holders committee of the Empire Sheet

UNFULFILLED

'Death Before Dishonor' Motto, Not Taken Seriously.

AUBURN, N. Y. (AP)—A man who has been jailed numerous times for such things as vagrancy, abandonment, drunkenness and larceny is back in the toils of the law at Auburn prison.

He is easy to identify. On his right forearm is a tattooed motto: "Death Before Dishonor."

9 INJURED, 3 SERIOUSLY IN AUTO CRASHES

Trio In Hospital After Cars Meet Head-On In Collision On Route 42.

CLEVELANDER BADLY HURT

One Driver Arrested After Series of Accidents Near City During Night.

Nine persons were injured, three seriously, in a series of automobile crashes in and near Richland county last night and early this morning.

Three are in Mansfield General hospital. They were victims of a head-on collision on U. S. route 42, a half mile south of Lexington, shortly after midnight.

Most seriously hurt is John C. Anderson, 44, of Cleveland. He sustained a possible skull fracture, a fractured arm and leg and lacerations and bruises, physicians said.

His condition this morning was described as "only fair" by hospital attendants.

Also in the hospital is Douglas Gibson, 18, and Kary Foster, 25, both colored, of Buffalo, N. Y. Gibson suffered a fractured jaw and Foster lacerations and bruises. Both are in "good" condition, attaches reported.

State highway patrolmen who said they were unable to determine the cause of the accident, said the cars came together on a slight grade on the straight two-lane road.

Gibson and Foster, who was driving, were en route to Alabama in a borrowed machine to get Foster's wife and family, officers said. Anderson was en route to his home in Cleveland. Patrolmen said they were unable to question him concerning the accident because of his condition.

Highway patrolmen and Deputy Sheriff C. C. Gongwer who were called to the scene said the cars apparently came together in the center of the road, both turning over after the crash. Both cars were demolished.

Following an accident on U. S. route 30-S west of Mansfield, at about the same time, Eugene A. Terrell, 36, of 349 Springmill street, was arrested by highway patrolmen on charges of operating

CAME FIRST

Boy Slain by Pervert Wasn't Intended Victim.

CINCINNATI—(AP)—The fantastic tale of the butcher knife slaying of a 10-year-old schoolboy "because he came along first" was unfolded today in what police said was the signed confession of Guy Willie Ponder, 27-year-old dishwasher and admitted sex pervert, held for the murder of Clarence Stevens, a pupil of the Holy Name parochial school.

Ponder, who psychiatrists said has the mind of a nine-year-old, told authorities he had wanted to kill someone since he was 12 years old, but that he had repressed the desire until last October.

"This boy (Clarence) wasn't the one I wanted to kill," the confession related, "but he came along first."

Tiger 'Cuts Rug' for Grid Fans

WLLKIE LAUDS LEWIS' STAND

Calls Labor Chief 'Valiant Defender of Labor Who Puts Country Above All.'

(By Associated Press)

ABOARD WILLKIE TRAIN ENROUTE TO N. Y. Before returning to New York today for a swift round of campaigning, Wendell L. Willkie welcomed the support of John L. Lewis as "a great stride toward bringing the spontaneous unity" which he declared his own election would create.

Following a radio talk last night in which he asked President Roosevelt to answer questions about the defense program, unemployment and the federal debt, Willkie issued a statement calling Lewis "a valiant defender of labor who puts his country above all."

Numbers For Draftees In Sunday N-J

The News-Journal will publish in its Sunday issue a list of the Mansfield and Richland county men who registered Oct. 16 under the draft law with their serial numbers.

Men whose names and numbers appear in the lists are urged to save that section of the Sunday News-Journal for the drawings in Washington next Tuesday. The lists will include about 9,400 names and numbers and will be nearly complete. A few of the names of city and county residents who registered out of the state are not available from the county draft boards.

Tygers Lose But No One Complains

Although the 7,200 persons who jammed into Stadium field last night watched the Mansfield Tygers go down gallantly to a 38 to 0 defeat at the hands of the mighty Massillon football team, not one complained he didn't get his money's worth.

Since the opening of the stadium, there has never been such a spectacle as was witnessed last night by the greatest crowd ever to attend a Mansfield game.

Every available seat in the stadium was taken and special bleachers erected at both ends of the field were solidly packed with excited, shouting, football-mad fans. Those who couldn't get seats anywhere stood

FDR PREPARES BOSTON SPEECH

Maps Schedule For Final Bid For New England Votes; Swing West Dimmed.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt scheduled today a pre-election journey to Boston where he will deliver a speech next Wednesday night, expected to be a final stroke for New England votes.

Democratic leaders in a number of states east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio were known to have been importuning the president to make a speech in their territory on the same night.

The announcement of the Boston engagement, made by the White House last night, came as a distinct disappointment to the state leaders who had urgently desired the president's personal appearance especially in Chicago, Indianapolis and Detroit.

With the Boston group, leaders in these three cities had been pressing strongest to win his presence. The states surrounding these four cities together possess 78 electoral votes and are all regarded as 1940 battlegrounds of the first water.

If the president sticks to his 12-hour travel rule and the tense international situation fails to ease measurably over the week-end it now appears that a swing into Indiana, Illinois and Michigan before election is out

HIT BY TRAIN

Truck Driver Killed Near Newark; Four Cars Derailed.

NEWARK (AP)—Traffic was restored today on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad between Newark and Shawnee in Perry county after being interrupted by an accident which claimed the life of Howard Showman, 30, Granville.

He was killed and the locomotive and four cars of the train derailed yesterday in a collision between train and Showman's truck.

Claim British Liner Sunk By German Planes

Axis Raiders Bomb Scotland, England; London Subjected to Hammering Blows; French Consider Hitler's Demands.

(By Associated Press)

The tempo of Nazi aerial warfare against Britain and British shipping was speeded up today with reported sinking of the 42,348-ton Empress of Britain, as the world awaited the outcome of the German-Italian-French diplomatic negotiations to determine France's new status in Axis-dominated Europe.

London was under alarm five times between daybreak and early afternoon after a night-long hammering in which more homes and buildings were smashed and numerous casualties inflicted.

Axis planes attacked eastern Scotland, the British naval base of Rosyth, Liverpool, Wales and Midland industrial cities as well as the capital last night.

At sea the Germans claimed to have sunk the giant liner Empress of Britain, in which King George and Queen Elizabeth returned home after their visit to the United States and Canada in 1939, later reputedly in troop transport service.

Informed Nazi sources said German combat planes bombed the liner north of Ireland and left her in a sinking condition after the crew got away in boats.

The RAF, taking advantage of the clearest weather observed in the English channel since the start of the war, attacked a Nazi convoy off the French coast. Watchers believed at least one vessel was hit. Boulogne, on the French coast, was still ablaze from British night bombing.

Germany, it was disclosed today has adopted a new four-year plan, to be directed, as was that recently completed, by Reichsmarshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering.

In London, it was learned, King George VI sent a message to Premier Marshal Philippe Petain, expressing sympathy for the French people and confidence in an eventual British victory.

The Mediterranean situation was high-lighted by reports that Italy has suspended air service to Greece, an action interpreted as indicative of an imminent showdown between Greece and the Axis powers.

Vice Premier Pierre Laval returned to Vichy after conferring with Italian, German and Spanish leaders and was due to attend a cabinet meeting at which Marshal Petain, chief of state, was scheduled to report on his conversations with Adolf Hitler.

The daylight raids on London today were brief. Bombs exploded during one raid in the central city district.

Rosyth, in the Firth of Forth, was the first land objective in Britain attacked after war was declared. A Nazi raid Oct. 16, 1939, took an acknowledged toll of 35 naval casualties, and two cruisers and one destroyer were damaged.

British and German long-range guns dueled across the English

NAZIS SEEKING PEACE IN CHINA

Hitler Reported Attempting To Arouse Anti-American Feeling In Far East.

(By United Press)

SHANGHAI — Diplomatic sources reported today that Adolf Hitler was quietly attempting to extend the Nazi campaign for peace on Axis terms to China in order to break up American collaboration with Great Britain in the Far East.

Usually responsible sources investigating the Nazi activities believed that the German tactics involved:

1—Temporary Japanese appeasement of Great Britain in the Far East and shifting the direction of hostile newspaper comment from Britain to the United States as indicated in the Japanese press.

2—Abandonment of the government of Wang Ching-Wei, set up under Japanese protection at Nanking, in favor of direct negotiations for a compromise Japanese settlement with the Chungking government of Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, if possible.

There was a widespread belief that Japan might be persuaded to offer liberal terms to Chiang Kai-Shek and seek to enlist British aid in mediation. Otherwise, it was said, German mediation would be attempted. These sources reported belief that German influence was being felt in Japanese foreign policy and that more than 400 Germans were now in various Japanese government offices as "observers."

Some diplomats in China believed that Germany might even urge Japan to offer to return all occupied areas except in North China and in certain coastal areas to the Chungking government in an effort to end the costly war in China.

NAMED HEAD OF OHIO STATE BAR

Toledoan Elected President At Cincinnati Meeting.

CINCINNATI (AP)—The election of Donald A. Finkbeiner, of Toledo, as president of the Ohio Bar association was announced today as the annual meeting of the organization moved toward a close.

Selection of the Toledo attorney, delegates said, indicates that the 1941 convention will be held in Toledo. The convention city will be announced at the closing session this afternoon.

Finkbeiner for the past eight months has served as a member of Governor Bricker's highway advisory board

GIRLS KILLED

Two Members of High School Band Die of Crash Injuries.

BELLEFONTAINE (AP)—Sally White, 13, and Barbara White, 15 cousins, were killed in an automobile collision last night near Huntsville while they were returning from the Bellefontaine-St. Mary's football game.

Eight other persons were injured and two, Annabelle Ely, 19, Lakeview, and Bess Shafer, 18, Lewistown, were not expected to survive.

The White girls were members of the St. Mary's band.

FAIR CLOSES

2-Year Run Ends Tomorrow For New York Exposition.

NEW YORK (AP)—The lonely wail of a bugle will sound the official requiem at midnight tomorrow for the New York world's fair, after a two-year run that has drawn nearly 45,000,000 visitors to Flushing Meadows.

The bugler sounding "taps" on the shores of Liberty lake in the amusement area will signal the official end of the $150,000,000 exposition, but funmakers will be permitted a final fling into the morning hours before the gates finally are closed. To keep their frolicking within bounds, 1,000 uniformed patrolmen will be on hand.

Next week, workmen will begin demolishing the hundreds of buildings and converting the site into a city park.

HELD THE BALL

Semi-Conscious Tackle Scores With Help of Mates.

MOSCOW, Idaho (AP)—Gordon Larson, Moscow high school tackle, blocked a Pendleton high punt with his stomach. The blow knocked the wind from Larson and he doubled up. Unknowingly holding the ball, and his teammates rushed him the 14 yards to the goal line. Final Moscow 13, Pendleton 0.

Sunday N-J Has First Birthday Tomorrow

Pardon our look of pride but the baby's just a year old tomorrow.

He hasn't stopped growing since the pressmen put the first edition to bed just a year ago. He may have kept us walking the floor on Saturday nights but response of both readers and advertisers alike indicates that you like his bright-eyed appearance on your doorstep every Sunday morning.

So tomorrow we're going to celebrate the first anniversary of the Sunday edition of The News-Journal.

Here's how.

Time Bomb.

The weekly political column explodes a time bomb with the inside story of some of the "hottest" political shenanigans in recent Richland county history.

For the convenience of prospective draftees there will be four pages carrying a full list of men registered for military conscription in the county with their draft numbers. Save tomorrow's issue so you'll know who's been called when numbers are drawn in the national lottery from time to time.

Forecast of Fun.

Next Thursday's Halloween. The Sunday edition brings you a layout of jolly local pictures and a story about celebrations in the wild old days and plans for the civic observance this year.

The camera goes to Senior high school for another in the series of features on project education. . . . It also takes a look into a hand-dug well more than 40 feet deep. . . . There will be a worthwhile interview with one of the county's probation officers.

Besides complete football data, the sports pages bring you a set of snappy photographs of Mansfield high school's cross country team which is competing today at Sandusky.

Politics, the war, weddings and other social events, pictures and news of general interest will vie with "Do You Remember," a short story, colored comics and features of national reputation in holding your interest in this birthday edition.

Conscientious Objectors Must File Deferment Claims

SPECIAL FORM PREPARED FOR DRAFT EVASION

Liberal Provisions Made For Religious Groups Opposed To Army Service.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Special forms that must be filled by conscientious objectors to military service were distributed to local draft boards today to aid in determining whether such men should be deferred from training.

They will be passed out to men who file claims for deferment on these grounds in the regular draft questionnaire which will be filled out by all registrants in the order in which their numbers are drawn in next Tuesday's lottery.

The form is divided into two classifications: Those willing to do non-combatant service and unwilling to serve under any circumstances. In either case, the objector must establish that his opposition is "by reason of my religious training and belief."

Draft Director Clarence A. Dykstra pointed out that the conscription act provides that men establishing such claims cannot be inducted into the army if they "object to all forms of military training." Such men, he said, can only be assigned to work of national importance under civilian direction.

The provisions, he said, are "generally liberalized" in comparison to similar regulations of the World war draft which required that conscientious objectors had to be members of a recognized religious sect whose creed forbade participation in war.

Meanwhile, plans for the lottery moved forward rapidly. Eight girls who were locked in a room at draft headquarters to place the registration numbers in small opaque capsules for use in the lottery completed the task last night. Every precaution had been taken to prevent any capsule from being left empty or any number from being left out.

The capsules will be loaded into an armored truck and taken to the treasury, there to be placed in a vault for storage until Tuesday. They then will be transferred to the interdepartmental auditorium and deposited in the glass bowl used in the World war draft lottery.

Three Tennyson Family Members Among Refugees

WACO, Tex.—(U.P.)—Three members of Great Britain's famed Tennyson family are war refugees in Texas, bringing for safekeeping many letters and 2,100 pages of manuscript of the late Alfred Lord Tennyson.

The three are Mrs. Charles Arthur Tennyson; her daughter, Patricia and her son, David, 11. Patricia is enrolled at Baylor university. The mother and son will stay at the McGregor home of Dr. Christine Fall, professor of English at Baylor and a friend of the Tennysons for several years.

Dr. Fall lived at the Tennyson estate in Essex while gathering material for her doctor's thesis on the life and works of Frederick Tennyson, older brother of Alfred.

The husband and father of the Texas visitors is Maj. Charles Arthur Tennyson, grandson of Frederick Tennyson. Major Tennyson is in the Marines in Britain and another son, John, 18, is in the Royal Air Force. A married daughter, Phyllis, remained in England also to be an ambulance driver.

TWO NUMBERS

RENO, Nev. — (AP) — John Erward Lichtenberg tried to correct a mistake in his original registration for the draft, and as a result of his pains he has two numbers.

He discovered his name was misspeled the first time he registered. He returned and filled out a second card. Both were given numbers.

Ohio Candidates Plan Campaign Wind-Up

Up and Down the Street

Supportors of the one-mill levy are already boasting about the parade they are promoting to boost passage of the issue at the Nov. 5 election. Ed Wyllie, chairman of the parade committee, says the committee has no funds to put on a spectacular parade but he predicts that Mansfielders are going to see some REAL floats when they tour the downtown streets on election eve. It is to be a torchlight affair and politicians and political signs are being barred, because the levy is a non-partisan issue.

Another sign of the approaching winter: An order posted on the bulletin board at police headquarters by Police Chief Meade K. Bates today ordering officers to don their winter uniforms consisting of breeches and puttees on Nov. 1. During the summer they are attired in trousers.

John H. Eisaman, Mansfield schools attendance officer, who spends a great deal of time helping boys and girls, was looking for a home and job today for a 17-year-old boy. The youth is from a broken home. His father is dead and his mother has remarried. He is living with relatives, and Eisaman granted him a working certificate to excuse him from school. "He's a hard worker and can do any kind of manual labor," Eisaman said. The youth is interested in music and wants to study it later.

A few months ago the boys of the Phalanx fraternity decided it would be nice if they had some club rooms to hold their meetings in and spend their leisure time. So Ralph B. Chapman, executive secretary of the Y. M. C. A., volunteered to let them use two rooms on the third floor of the "Y," provided they fixed them up. Every afternoon and evening after work, a number of the members armed with hammers, saws, and paint buckets, climb the stairs and set to work. The boys plan to move in any day now, after they have rounded up enough furniture to accommodate all the members.

Politics Fails To Disturb Family Equanimity.

MOLALLA, Ore. — (AP) — A farm home may be divided, but the right of free opinion is sacred, so long as the holder of the opinion takes credit for it.

Treated at the hospital for lacerations, he was later taken to the county jail. He was to be arraigned before Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston today.

Patrolmen said Terrell's car collided head-on with a machine driven by Harry A. Russ, 16, of R. D. 3, Mansfield. Russ was not injured.

In an accident this morning at the intersection of U. S. route 224 and route 60 in Ruggles, five persons received minor injuries when a car driven by Junior Frey, 20, of Ottawa, collided with a truck operated by L. O. McAlpine, 33, of Canton.

Officers said Frey and four passengers in the car received cuts and bruises. The truck driver was not hurt. Frey told patrolmen he was blinded by the lights on the truck.

Clyde E. Hummel, 41, of Ashland, escaped injury, about 6 a. m. today when his car collided with the rear of a truck driven by H. C. Eldney 23, of Toledo, just east of the Richland county line on U. S. route 42.

Hummel said he did not seee the truck due to the heavy early morning fog.

NEW GUN USED OVER CHANNEL

One Shot Lands In Dover But Causes Little Damage.

DOVER, England —(AP)— The Germans brought up a new long-range gun alongside the sixth battery near the Cap Gris Nez lighthouse in France today and it fired a single shell across the strait.

The huge projectile crashed into the Dover area, but did no great damage to property and there were no casualties.

Then British bombers raided the new gun position. Flashes of anti-aircraft guns were seen and puffs of smoke appeared in the sky as the shells burst around the planes.

TAIL LIGHTS

HUNTINGTON, Ind. — (INS) — Tail lights will be the style this fall for female coons released by the Huntington County Coon Hunters' Association. The lights will be small red reflectors bought by the association and attached to the tails of the female coons when they are planted. When the hunters see a red glare in the beam of his flashlight, he will refrain from shooting the animal.

and Tin Plate company, he worked untiringly to re-organize that industry in order to keep it in Mansfield.

When he left Cincinnati, he went to Chicago where he lived for some time and served on the Chicago Board of Trade. Later he went to Toledo and he was there when he built the elevators and established the Goemaan Grain company in Mansfield. He operated it from that city for five years coming to Mansfield in 1915. He sold the business to the Cleveland Grain company shortly after the close of the World war.

Early in the 1900's Mr. Goemann re-organized the National Grain Dealers association and through this connection he won national prominence. He served as president of it for several years and then was made chairman of its important transportation committee.

In this capacity he waged a campaign for lower freight rates, taking his case repeatedly before the Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington. When he was successful, his name became a familiar one all over the nation among grain dealers. This was carried on in the latter years of the Hoover administration.

Mr. Goemann's contacts with Herbert Hoover dated back to World war days, for the then national administrator of food appointed the Mansfield man to a district administratiive position under the War Board industries.

In 1933-34 when the NRA was in effect, Mr. Goemann was again called for a federal service and was made NRA administrator for this district.

In 1917, while president of the Chamber of Commerce he was named to the city planning commission where he served for a number of years. Throughout his adult years he had been an ardent member of the Republican party and at one time was candidate for mayor. Working independently of party leaders, he sometimes carried his views to the public by means of newspaper advertising.

Last year, Mr. Goemann was signally honored by the National Grain association when members gave a dinner in his honor in Minneapolis which was attended by grain men from all over the nation. He was honored as the oldest living president.

In his private life he had many close friends. He was associated with Grace Episcopal church which he served as vestryman for a number of years. Fraternally he was a member of all Masonic bodies including 32nd degree, and of Westbrook Country club.

Mr. Goemann is survived by his wife, Edith, whom he married in 1908, a daughter, Mrs. Clark Husted of Toledo, and two grandsons, Henry Goemann and Clark Husted, jr.

Episcopal funeral services will be read at Grace church at 8:30 a. m. Monday by Rev. Glenn Lewis. The body will be taken to Cincinnati where services will be held at 3 p. m. at Spring Grove cemetery and interment will be made there.

PARK DANCE

Association Plans Armistice Event at Coliseum.

The Mansfield Public Parks association will sponsor an Armistice day dance Monday night, Nov. 11, in the Coliseum, Ed. Wyllie, president of the association, announced today.

If the dance attracts a good crowd, others will be held during the winter season in the Coliseum, Wyllie said.

A well-known dance orchestra will play for the Armistice ball, Wyllie said. There will be dancing from 8 to 12.

Roy Vaughn, Gordon Schwan and Zane Wilson are in charge of arrangements for the ball. Vaughn is chairman of the association's program committee.

BRICKER TALKS AT PARTY RALLY OUTSIDE STATE

Davey Attacks Administration Of Ohio Relief as Brutal In Cleveland Crisis.

(By Associated Press)

Ohio's political candidates eased up a bit today in preparation for a vigorous final week of the 1940 campaign.

Gov. John W. Bricker sidetracked his own re-election bid temporarily to discuss national issues at a Republican rally in Lansing, Mich., while his opponent, former Gov. Martin L. Davey, Democratic nominee for a third term, scheduled appearances in Harrison and Cincinnati.

At Eaton yesterday, Governor Bricker declared "Ohio has met the challenge to put its house in order, not on order."

Davey, at Norwood, said Bricker's administration of relief was "brutal" and referred to criticism on that count last winter by Mayor Harold H. Burton of Cleveland, who is running for United States senator on the Republican ticket.

Burton, in the seventh of a series of radio interviews, discussed government ownership of business. He was questioned by Lewis B. Rock, president and publisher of the Dayton Journal and Herald.

"I believe in striving to improve, as far as possible, the ethics and standards of privately owned and operated enterprises serving the public and to improve the efficiency of the governmental supervision and regulation of their service," Burton said.

John McSweeney of Wooster, Democratic senatorial nominee, reminded Cincinnati voters that the government spent "many millions" for flood control.

Other political developments in Ohio:

Columbus—Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard declared Wendell L. Willkie intended to abandon the present farm program although the Republican presidential nominee attempted to make farmers believe that he would retain agricultural benefits if elected.

Cleveland — Raymond Moley, presidential adviser during Mr. Roosevelt's first term, said the president "rushed to the radio when panic seized his party," but was "too late to save his campaign for re-election."

Quotes Three Rules for Americans to Follow to Preserve Their Freedom

—By JANE WILLIAMS

IT IS to be regretted that all Mansfield did not hear the lecture of Eva Lips at John Simpson junior high school Thursday night. It started out as an analysis of the German propaganda factory but turned out to be one of the best Americanization talks a Mansfield audience has heard.

She warned of the present generation's tendency to ridicule and belittle any show of patriotism and the traditions that make up a country's background. "Liberty isn't something that can be captured and kept in a glass case in the living room," she said. "It is a precious thing, but one that is easily lost. It must be constantly watered and nourished with patriotism: it must be cherished and fought for."

She gave three points or rules that must be followed by Americans if they care enough about their national and individual freedom to preserve it:

1—Do not underestimate anyone or any force. It may be the very force that is at work undermining your way of living—even though it is neighbor or friend.

2—Do not overestimate your neighbor. In other words, don't depend on the other fellow's sense of right and decency and patriotism to do your work in cherishing your national integrity. Be an individual fortress for your country.

3—Don't compromise one single point on your ideals. Be ready not only to fight for them, but to die for them, for without them life isn't worth living. The people of France have learned that bitter lesson already.

MRS. LIPS pointed out the fact that one of Hitler's deadliest weapons was ridicule. In every instance before he launched a physical attack on a nation he first ridiculed and belittled its ideals, its background, and its leader—the man most likely to be called upon to save it in time of emergency. She said these tactics had been turned on Dollfus of Austria, Benes of Czecho-Slovakia, Kurt Schusnigg of Austria and the leaders of Poland and France.

In the case of Britain it didn't work, for Churchill was the one man in all Europe who had the stature to stand toe to toe with Hitler and exchange blows, Mrs. Lips said.

She predicted that the break in German resistance would come, as it did in 1918, not from without but from within.

DON'T look now but we have a feeling that something terrible is about to happen to women's freedom in dress. Have you noticed the occasional glimpses in current motion pictures of the hobble skirt, the slit-skirt of post-World war days, and the (gawd-helpus) "rats" in high pompadours?

If those things come back, why fight for democracy? Life won't be worth living.

OUT in Kansas City where the smoke of political battles is thicker than a London fog, one of the most conspicuous figures is a former Mansfield boy. It seems that with the Pendergast machine still trying to come back, the job of prosecutor in Jackson county is pretty important to the people of Missouri.

Chet A. Keyes is running for that office, and Kansas City papers play him up as one of the most in importance of all state issues. He is the young lawyer who was made a special United States prosecutor to clean up Philadelphia's vice syndicates in 1933, and also served as assistant to the attorney general.

Keyes was born in Mansfield in 1896, attended school here and later moved with his parents, Stephen and Marie Keyes, to Kansas City. His grandfather was Dr. A. E. Keyes on West Third street.

NEWSPAPER women are supposed to be adepts at seeking out the "feminine angle" of news and feature stories, yet strangely enough they are less interested in the feminine angle of news than are men.

Kenneth Downs, foreign correspondent for International News, who is home on leave and who spoke in Mansfield two weeks ago, was a guest at the Ohio Newspaper Women's convention in Lancaster last week-end.

The bars were down and he promised to answer any questions, provided the answers were "off the record." Having been one of only three American newspaper men to be invited guests at the wedding of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, he fully expected that the women would ask him all about that empire-shaking romance and marriage. There wasn't a single question on it. Instead they asked for the story behind the European picture. Even after he had volunteered some interesting highlights on the Windsors, the questions took him back to the subject of war.

Maybe it is just that women have single track minds when war is the subject of conversation.

FOREIGN correspondents were unable, try as they did, to find out what Mussolini and Hitler had for their luncheon at their recent meeting in Brenner Pass, according to a news dispatch.

What difference does it make? What ever they had is bound to give the rest of the world indigestion.

BACKS WILLKIE AS FRIEND OF LABORING MAN

Lewis Declares He'll Quit As CIO Chief If Roosevelt Wins.

more other states where the labor vote is heavy.

Lewis said he spoke to, not for, labor. He claimed control of no votes except as men and women might follow his recommendations. But he estimated that the several organizations he represents, number 10,000,000 members and that, with their families, they approximate one fourth of the population.

"I speak to labor and to all my countrymen," he said.

But to his own CIO associates he spoke first, reminding them that upon some of them, "I have bestowed the honors which you now wear."

Many of his lieutenants already are against him—Van Bittner of the CIO, Phillip Murray, CIO vice president, Sidney Hillman of the clothing makers and a vice president, too, Thomas Kennedy, of the miners, R. J. Thomas, of the auto workers, are among those who are for a third term.

To the mine workers, he called for help to "oppose the creation of a political dictatorship in free America."

To the farmers, he said their interest lay in aggressive support of the Republican presidential candidate.

To youth, "I say that the road of opportunity for you lies in the election of Wendell Willkie for president."

To Negroes "your living conditions are poorest; your unemployment highest; discrimination against you is worst. Surely you have no cause to believe that President Roosevelt is an indispensable man."

To the millions of young men who have registered for selective military service, "you, who may be about to die in a foreign war, created at the whim of an international meddler, should you salute your Caesar?"

To Christians, "why should you vote for a man who ignores home considerations and practices the modern sorcery of war mongering?"

To women, "lead the revolt against the candidate who plays at a game that may make cannon fodder of your sons."

Lewis' bolt returned him to former political moorings. He supported Calvin Coolidge against John W. Davis in 1924 and Herbert C. Hoover against Alfred E. Smith in 1928. He was inactive in 1932, but in 1936 his C. I. O. advanced $470.000 in loans and gifts to the Roosevelt campaign and Labor's Non-Partisan League performed mighty political services. Lewis is president of the league.

Lewis and the labor vote helped swing Pennsylvania to Mr. Roosevelt in 1936—first time that state went Democratic since the Republican party was founded. Republicans hope now that Lewis' prestige will give them the edge in the industrial states of the Mid-Atlantic and Lake regions.

Lewis said he broke with Mr. Roosevelt because he believed the New Deal is taking the country into war, because he believes it has failed to solve urgent problems, because it refused labor satisfactory recognition after 1936 and because he fears a third term would lead to a dictatorship.

He said he supported Willkie because he has faith in his promises to find jobs for every one, to abolish pauperism, to increase the national income by seeking to increase the wages and income of those now unemployed. And, he added, Willkie has promised to keep out of war.

"He says," Lewis continued, "that he will enlist the representative brains of the nation to do this job. He says he will take the representatives of labor into his cabinet and into the policy making agencies of government.

"He says he will reduce the cost of our government—enforce the right of labor to organize—promote collective bargaining—preserve and maintain all social legislation.

"Can we believe Mr. Willkie, some will ask. I reply that I have confidence in Mr. Willkie's integrity and honor. He is a strong man."

Lewis put a tremendous emphasis on the word, "He." It seemed to be the keynote of his effort to draw a parallel between Mr. Roosevelt and Willkie.

"If not Roosevelt, whom do I recommend to do the job of making secure our nation and its people?"

Lewis' voice was booming from coast to coast on a three chain broadcost at a cost of $6,000 paid by the National Committee of Democrats for Willkie.

"Why, of course," the rumbling voice continued. "I recommend the election of Wendell L. Willkie.

"He is a gallant American. He has opened his heart to the American people. He is not an aristocrat. He has the common touch. He was born in the briar and not to the purple. He has worked with his hands, and known the pangs of hunger. He has had experience in various fields of American enterprise, and is an administrator and an executive."

Lewis then dealt with the argument—advanced by many of his associates—that he should "withhold support of Mr. Willkie because Messrs. Grace, Girdler and Weir are allegedly supporting him." (Steel men, bitter opponents of the CIO.) He answered they might "as well suggest that the communicants of a particular faith should leave their church because of the presence of a hypocrite."

"Aside from this," Lewis continued in the vein of barbed sarcasm which was wide and deep in his speech, "these gentlemen must possess some virtue, because President Roosevelt has awarded them many fat and lucrative government contracts, at the expense of the public purse.

"I may also add in passing, that it is a reasonable hope that these gentlemen, acting in their corporate capacities, will soon execute collective bargaining contracts with the CIO.

Lewis traced his public breaks with Mr. Roosevelt from Sept. 4, 1939, when he protested "thoughtless and sadly executed experimentation" and warned of the rising national debt and the dangers of economic debacle. He was warning them against war and he said: "Above all, war perpetuates in imperishable letters on the scroll of fame and history the names of its political creators and managers."

channel until an early hour today as the RAF again unloaded bombs on the continental coast.

The RAF also attacked air bases in German-occupied territory and oil supplies and naval bases in central and northern Germany.

Vichy officials, who previously gave the impression the talks meant permanent peace terms for France, said the negotiations were expected to settle only "immediate problems" between France and Germany, and may be preludes to an Axis "peace drive," perhaps aimed at President Roosevelt's aid.

To that peace report, a Berlin spokesman pointed to the continuing raids on Britain as the "best answer."

Some neutral sources in Europe still believed the talks were aimed at securing French Mediterranean bases or naval aid in exchange for less harsh Axis peace terms to France.

Japanese reports in the Far East said Japanese planes bombed two bridges on the Burma road in the third attack since that vital Chinese supply route was reopened Oct. 18 by Britain.

Yosemite Park Bears Good In Non-Cub Year

YOSEMITE, Cal.—(INS)—This year is a 'non-cub" year at Yosemite National park, and as a result of this and greater precautions by rangers, a record low of only two persons were injured by bears during the season, reports park superintendent Lawrence C. Merriam.

Years in which large numbers of cubs are born to the bruins in the park have been each odd year during the past decade or so, Merriam explained.

More visitors get in scrapes with the bears in these years because of the mother bears' nervousness regarding their young.

In 1939, a 'cub" year, 52 persons were injured: in the "non-cub" year of 1938 there were but 17 injured, and in the "cub" year of 1937 there were 65 injuries.

Practicaly all the injuries are caused by visitors ignoring the standing regulations against feeding, touching, teasing or molesting the bears.

Tygers Lose But No One Complains

throughout the game in available spots around the field.

The Mansfield high school band, glistening under the lights in their brand-new uniforms, marched proudly out on the field to salute the cheering fans. Then came the Massillon band, quick-stepping to swing band tempos, to join the Mansfield band at the south end of the field in playing the Star Spangled Banner at the flag raising ceremony.

Between halves, the Massillon band—led by the Massillon Tiger, clad in a gaily-colored skirt—staged novelty band numbers that would rival most any college band in the country.

Even the bettors, who were wagering yesterday that Massillon would score at least 40 points on Mansfield, paid up willingly. The Mansfield Tygers had acquitted themselves well.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—"Arise, My Love" had to sit, my love, for some re-takes. . . . Seems it was a warm summer in Europe—too warm at times for Elder Will Hayes. . . . Hope the cool-off doesn't freeze out Walter Abel's best comedy scenes. . . . It's his first chance at comedy since he was brought out several years ago from the stage because he was so good in comedy. . . . Incidentally, if that guy doesn't get a real break soon I'm going to organize a picket line or something. I'm getting tired of seing Abel's four-star performances draw raves at previews only to be forgotten by the next casting—so you have to comb the B's to find him again. . . . Maybe "Arise, My Love" is it for Abel, and it's time. . . .

Know what a first-night audience looks like? To Herbert Wilcox, directing Anna Neagle in "No, No, Nanette," it's like five lovely pink lobsters resting in parsley on a silver tray. . . . Wilcox dissolved from a scene of such an audience applauding to a close-up of his lobsters, their pincers clapping. . . . He had them "stratolinered" from the east and finished the close-up in time to let the lobsters meet a nobler fate at lunch. . . . "Only a FIRST NIGHT audience, mind you," said tactful Herbert, who likes audiences (really he does) especially for "N. N. N." . . .

On the same set, Helen Broderick's story of the lovelorn monkey is a classic, but it probably needs the Broderick drollery to put it over. In a big zoo the little monkey's cage was next to the big lion's, and all day long the little monkey sighed and adored the lion, her eyes alight with love. This went on day after day until the lion got angry, and roared: "How could anybody fall in love with you, you little monkey? You're the ugliest thing. Look at yourself in the mirror—you're hideous, you're repulsive, you're a fright!" And the little monkey cried, and sighed and stammered plaintively: "I . . . I know—but I been sick. . . ."

Specialist in bewilderment is Erin-faced old Frank Conlan, long-time Broadway character actor making his first stab at movies since old World Film days in New Jersey when he worked with the late Alice Brady. . . . Frank doesn't tell his age, which might be 50, might be 70, and probably is. . . . His specialty dates from Broadway's "The Front Page," in which he played the reprieve-bearer. He's the stage doorman in Ben Hecht's "Angels Over Broadway"—the pixilated old boy who recites Shakespeare to the rats.

David Hempstead, young associate producer, is on the crest again because it was he who suggested "Kitty Foyle" to RKO as a movie, which he's making now. . . . But he had his bad days at 20th Century and the "Foyle" crew didn't let him forget them as they feted his birthday on the set. A couple of the ribbing telegrams:

"Thanks for Little MISS BROADWAY. It did. Love, Shirley Temple."

"Thanks for STRAIGHT, PLACE, AND SHOW. We didn't forget. Ritz Brothers."

Denver Pilot, 17, Has Flown Total Of 62,000 Miles

DENVER—(INS)—Denver is expecting great things from Dick K. James, who took up flying when he was 13 years old and at the age of 17 now has flown a total of 62,000 miles.

Government regulations don't allow solo flights until pilots have reached 16 years of age, so Dick had to wait almost three years before he could solo. As a result, he cannot count approximately 200 hours of flying time he accumulated before he reached his 16th birthday.

Included in Dick's flying experiences are five forced landings. None of these, however, was with his own plane. The Drive carefully tomorrow—you'll surely want to know how the election comes out.

The pendulum's swing toward unlimited juvenile "self expression" appears to be moving back toward old-fashioned discipline.

Science note reveals: "A current sun spot is so large that the earth could easily be thrown into it"—but this should be withheld at a last resort.

John L. Lewis States His Views

WHATEVER influence John L. Lewis may have in the ranks of labor has been thrown to the support of Wendell L. Willkie, Republican nominee for the presidency.

This marks a complete reversal of the Lewis attitude of four years ago when the full strength of his labor leadership was exerted in behalf of the re-election of Roosevelt.

In a speech delivered last night, under sponsorship of the national committee of Democrats for Willkie, Mr. Lewis excoriated the Roosevelt administration, lauded Willkie and made it clear that he would regard the third term election of Roosevelt as a repudiation of his leadership in the labor movement.

"If Mr. Roosevelt is re-elected," he said, "it will mean that members of the Congress of Industrial Organizations have rejected my advice and recommendation. I will accept the result as being equivalent to a vote of no confidence and will retire as president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations at its own convention in November."

The appeal of Mr. Lewis was not only to "the men and women of labor," but to all Americans, with special reference to the youth of the nation, to whom he said: "The road of opportunity for you lies in the election of Wendell Willkie for president. . . . Surely you wish to widen the horizon of opportunity for yourselves and your contemporary citizens."

While Lewis stated at the beginning of his address that he was speaking his own views, the importance of the alignment of his leadership on the Willkie side of the national contest becomes quite evident, as his contact with conditions involving the welfare of labor has probably been closer than that of any other person in the country.

In any event the speech by John L. Lewis served as a forthright, sincere and powerful expression of his views on national affairs—as will be seen by reading the full text of his address, which appears elsewhere in this issue.

To Elect Judges of Three Courts

MANY VOTERS encounter difficulty in marking their non-partisan judicial ballot, because of not taking the trouble to learn something about the candidates before election day. This accounts for fewer votes being cast for judicial candidates than for those on the regular party ballot.

At the coming election judges of three courts are to be chosen—state supreme court, court of appeals and probate court.

Three members are to be elected to the state supreme court, two for full terms and one to fill an unexpired term. One judge of the court of appeals is to be elected, also a Richland county probate judge to succeed Charles J. Anderson, now completing his second term.

The non-partisan judicial ballot was adopted in Ohio a number of years ago, in the belief that this would divorce the selection of judges from party politics. While it is unlikely that this has been accomplished to any great extent, the fact remains that the non-partisan ballot, on which names rotate, serves as an "intelligence test," to the extent of requiring ability to read the names of candidates, instead of merely being able to distinguish between an eagle and a rooster—the limit of intelligence required to vote a "straight" party ticket.

While it is a simple matter for each voter to learn something about the opposing candidates for probate judge, this is not so easy in the cases of supreme court and court of appeals aspirants. Some study, however, should be given to the non-partisan judicial ballot before election day.

Y. M. C. A. Enrollment Week

ANNUAL enrollment of Mansfield Y. M. C. A. members comes along next week, starting Monday and continuing through Tuesday, November 5.

Associated with this renewal of present memberships and addition of new ones, the Mansfield "Y" will celebrate the seventieth anniversary of its organization, it having been in 1870 that Y. M. C. A. activities were first introduced in this city.

It was 27 years after the start had been made before the local association had progressed to the point of erecting the building it has since occupied on Park avenue west.

Although this 43-year-old structure served earlier needs well, it has not been possible, in recent years, to expand the association's program to the extent that has been done in many cities where public support has been sufficient to finance the building and equipping of a modern "Y," as has been contemplated in Mansfield for a number of years.

Under the handicap of inadequate facilities, however, the Mansfield Y. M. C. A. has been doing commendable work. Membership participation in activities reached a daily average of 150, or a total of 51,046 attendance during the past year. There was additional attendance of 16,806 non-members at "Y"-directed activities during the year.

Y. M. C. A. memberships are in a number of different classifications and costs, based on privileges desired. Opportunity is also given to make payment of membership fees for deserving boys who wish to pay their own membership fees.

The Y. M. C. A. in Mansfield is performing an essential community service in a commendable way. Your appreciation can be shown by securing one form of membership in the association.

Jefferson Opposed Nepotism

PUBLIC distaste for nepotism, or favoritism to relatives, was recognized at least as far back as Thomas Jefferson's administration, for it was to a relative that he wrote a letter in which he said: "I will never view with approbation offices which are handed round in families like family property. . . . He must satisfy the people that he is directing their affairs with a single eye to their good, and not build up fortunes for himself and family."

It was such sound views as this that won for Thomas Jefferson his high place in history—and in the esteem of the Democratic party, by which he was long held in high regard.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—There was once a cat. This feline belonged to Max Aronoff(violinist of the Curtis String quartet, and many were the puns as to whether poor Tabby would eventually wind up as an E-string on his master's fiddle.

No, he did not become an E-string or anything of the sort. But he is dead now, deader than Hector. He died early one morning a few days ago.

When this happened the violinist's wife carefully wrapped him up in brown paper and set out for the pound. She reasoned that the people there no doubt could dispose of the remains more suitably than she.

But then, you know how it is on subway. You sit down and get to thinking about things and sometimes you change your mind. That's what Mrs. Aronoff did.

"No," she decided. "I won't do this. I'll take him back home and bury him in the garden."

So she picked up poor kitty and got off the train, and got on another going in the opposite direction. Then she walked around the corner to her home. She got out a little hoe and dug a little grave in the shadow of the gladioli. Then she unwrapped poor kitty, and you can imagine her consternation when kitty turned out to be a leg of lamb.

It came to her, then, that a fellow on the subway had a package that looked just like hers.

THE COLUMBIA people have brought out an album of records by the late Bessie Smith, "Empress of the Blues," who came out of the South weighing 200 pounds some 23 years ago to become the most widely advertised blues singer in America. At one time her income reached $2,000 a week. Bessie's popularity went into a decline shortly before she died three years ago, notably because Ethel Waters came along at that time and eclipsed just about every blues singer in the country. The interesting point about these belated releases is that some of them have never been heard by the public. They constitute a collector's item in a form of American music that is as native as catfish and cornbread.

COPS, late prowlers, and milkmen got an eyeful when they passed the Music Hall the other night. After the last show an efficiency crew rushed in and, between 1 o'clock and dawn, laid a new carpet in the Music Hall foyer. This carpet covered exactly 7,200 square feet, and probably cost that many dollars. The new was an exact duplicate of the old. It was designed by Ruth Reeves, and is known as the Somerset pattern. Perhaps you remember it from your visits here.

DICTATORS, TAKE NOTICE

Primary and Important Issues

By GUS W. DYER

Professor of Economics and Sociology, Vanderbilt University.

THE two fundamental issues in the election this year were not issues in the campaign of 1936. An attempt by the critics of the New Deal in 1936 to bring them to the front as issues failed.

In 1936 no attempt had been made to pack the Supreme Court. The American people had no notion that the president would attempt to do so. Woodrow Wilson had said that if any congress should ever pervert and abuse the authority given it by the Constitution to increase the number of the justices of the Supreme Court by packing the court to bring it to its way of thinking, the American people would rise up and crush such a "curse of constitutional immorality."

NOTWITHSTANDING this denunciation by Woodrow Wilson, and after the president was fixed in office for another four years, he did exercise all the power he had as chief executive to influence congress to pack the Supreme court in order to bring it around to his way of thinking.

The attempt failed but the president has succeeded in doing indirectly that which he tried to do directly. He has appointed five of his partisans—a majority of the court—who are able, now, to make the decisions of the Supreme court conform to the opinion and wishes of the supporters of the New Deal.

This is one important present issue.

In 1936, the theory of the New Deal was that the annual deficit of around four billion dollars was temporary and would soon pass out before increasing prosperity. But the big annual deficit has continued, and now is growing by leaps and bounds.

It is predicted that this deficit policy that increased the national debt around 25 billion dollars under the New Deal administration in peace time, will carry the debt to the nation to 75 or 100 billion dollars within the next five years. Even before the war scare came, the New Deal, it would seem, accepted the annual deficit of around 4 billion dollars as a necessity. No promise was made in the New Deal platform to reduce this deficit.

Of course, this policy, if continued will lead to national bankruptcy and industrial ruin. The New Deal has no plan to avert this calamity.

This is another present and vital issue.

A REVOLUTION in government is a radical change in the foundation of the government brought about in defiance and repudiation of the constituted authority of the government overthrown. The revolution may be brought about by direct or indirect methods. It may be achieved by open and direct attack or by fifth column methods of indirection from within.

The ignorance of the rank and file of the voters with reference to the fundamental principles of government makes it easy for radicals to capitalize this ignorance, and by deceptive methods of indirection, lead the people to destroy the foundation of their government without knowing what they have done.

The paramount issue today is not any foreign policy nor even any legitimate domestic policy. Both our foreign and domestic problems are extremely serious. But serious as they are, they wane in comparison with the real issue in the election in November.

The issue which we face is, shall we repudiate and abolish American constitutional democracy and establish in its place a mass democracy such as existed in Germany and Italy before the dictators took charge and of the type of the French democracy before France was crushed by Hitler?

The issue in this election is not between conservatives and liberals, not between Democrats and Republicans. There is absolutely no place for difference of opinion between Democrats, Republicans, conservatives and liberals on the question of the sanctity of an oath.

The issue is between conservatives, liberals, progressives, Democrats, Republicans, and all other groups of American citizens who believe in our present constitutional democracy, and those, who, by indirection would substitute government forms and ideals which, up to now, at least, have been foreign to our way of thinking and our political forms.

Mrs. H. C. M.:—"Should a man who claims he has a cigarette cough, congh all night continually?"

Answer—Anything called a "cigarette cough" should be investigated. Many people lull themselves with the name "cigarette cough" when there is a chronic process in the lungs as real cause of the cough. cough all night continual-

M. L.:—"Is lack of Vitamin B what causes the hair to turn gray? Will a sufficient intake of Vitamin B prevent premature graying? In what form can Vitamin B be taken?"

Answer—There has been some talk of lack of Vitamin B causing premature gray hair, but I doubt the evidence. We are blaming too much on the vitamins lately. But at any rate it does no harm to take plenty of Vitamin B. It can be taken in the form of whole rice, whole wheat, yeast, or in concentrated form as thiamin chloride.

H. K., Flint, Mich.—"Can you give me the cause of repeated attacks of streptococcus sore throat?"

Answer—It may be repeated infection. The streptococcus creates little immunity and repeated attacks are possible. Look to the milk supply. More likely is it that the so-called streptococcus sore throat is a manifestation of the cryptic infection in the tonsils or tonsil stubs.

L. J. B., East St. Louis, Ill.:—"Kindly advise about scarlet fever shots for my daughter, aged three. My family doctor advises against using them."

Answer—I agree with your family doctor.

M. S., Hoquiam, Wash.—"Will the taking of table salt cause hardening of the arteries?"

Answer—No, many opinions to the contrary, salt does no harm. The body requires a certain amount a day, and all foods contain some salt. Vegetables contain less than other foods and salt allows us to enjoy many vegetables that without it would be unpalatable.

Rocking Chair Days

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THERE is no article of furniture which I loathe more lustily than I do a Rocking Chair.

When I was a bride of 19, every Womanly Woman spent her afternoon in a Rocking Chair. That Rocking Chair was not merely a domestic accessory—it was a Way of Life.

Fresh white apron over black taffeta dress, there she sat, darned stockings, hemming skirts, rocking her life away.

Usually the veranda on which she squatted fronted a tree-bordered street. What did she know of the world which lay beyond that street? What did she comprehend of the tremendous currents which swayed the life of her nation and would mold the careers of her children? What of the problem which blocked human progress—of the needs and rebellions of the millions who lived in misery while she teetered in her rocking chair?

She knew nothing.

Nor was she supposed to know anything.

Indeed, such ignorance was considered the basic qualification of Womanly Womanliness. A wife and mother should realize the necessities of her family and chat about the scandals in her neighbors' lives. But when it came to the status of the human race, she was expected to be blind, deaf and dumb. Particularly dumb.

I remember those days. I remember that dreadful dumbness. I remember it all, particularly when I read dozens of daily letters which clamor for a return of the good old rocking-chair era. And I hereby arise in unrestrained glee and cry:

"THANK GOD, THE ROCKING CHAIR ERA IS OVER!"

That era wasn't beautiful. It wasn't dear. It was inexcusable and uncivilized—a blot on humanity's history.

NO WOMAN ON EARTH HAS A RIGHT TO ROCK HER DAYS AWAY IN BLISSFUL IGNORANCE . . . LEAST OF ALL A WIFE AND MOTHER.

No woman has a right to spend her life in comfortable security, safe from life's stress and struggle.

And no woman who does so can possibly be either a good wife or mother.

For no matter who is ignorant of her world can prepare her child to face its pressures or guide him through its conflicts. Nor can she be a fit companion to any two-fisted mate.

And this applies quite as well to papa. There are Rocking-Chair Dads as well as Rocking-Chair Moms . . . both of them creatures who prefer comfortable routine to the danger and glory of red-blooded adventure.

Safety and serenity are their gods. If people are insecure, it is their own fault. They would run risks! If people are troubled, they've asked for it! They shouldn't go around asking questions . . . facing challenges . . . poking their noses where they don't belong!

Rocking-Chair Psychology—it's the greatest obstacle to progress on this earth. The people who want to Stay Put, they undermine a nation's character more thoroughly than all the grafters, gangsters and racketeers put together.

If, before my end, I have but one prayer to make, it will be this—

"GOD SAVE ME FROM A ROCKING CHAIR!"

Army Hostesses.

Army camps aren't night clubs. Some at least of the 57 young women who applied to the army recruiting office in Detroit for positions as camp hostesses seem to have thought they were.

Uncle Sam is rather choosy about the type of women to look after the boys who wear his uniform. She need not be very young or very beautiful. She must, however, have a high school education or its equivalent, and at least one year's experience as a hostess or in a similar occupation. Senior hostesses must be between 30 and 50 years of age and junior hostesses between 25 and 45.

We suggest that young women looking for a career, who haven't these qualifications, try Hollywood instead of foolishly bothering the recruiting office.—Detroit Free Press.

Summary of Week's Happenings

National Campaign Gains Speed As FDR Battles for Third Term

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

I CONSIDER it a public duty to answer falsifications with facts. I will not pretend that I find this an unpleasant duty. I am an old campaigner, and I love a good fight."

With that introduction, Franklin Roosevelt began his active campaign for the presidency Wednesday night, after having left the field clear to his opponent for three months. He mentionel these as three main "falsifications:"

1 Hints that he has made secret commitments with foreign nations. His reply: "There is no secret treaty, no secret obligation, no secret commitment, no secret understanding. . . ."

2 The "outrageously false charge" that he hopes to lead this country into war. Reply: "This charge is contrary to every fact . . . of the past eight years."

3 Accusations that the New Deal has successfully sought to cripple business. Reply: "The output of America's factories and mines is now almost 13% greater than the 1929 peak."

Stated Wendell Willkie: "Any misstatement of the facts (about the New Deal) would be a charitable act. . . . If his promise to keep us from foreign wars is no better than his promise to balance the budget, the boys are already practically on transports."

Meanwhile, as the campaign approached its final week, the speeches on both sides became more waspish and sweeping.

Republicans.

Senator McNary: The New Deal policies may cause the farmer to sink to "the status of a peasant."

Alf Landon: If FDR is re-elected "We can expect . . . an unlimited term as chief executive, the gradual destruction of congress."

Democrats.

Attorney General Jackson: "Willkie would leave the government defenseless against profiteers."

Senator Downey: "Right now in Washington there are hundreds of business leaders, industrialists and technicians whose records . . . far surpass that of Mr. Willkie."

At Home

The Main Worry: Tin.

It takes more than iron to make a cannon. Common metals like iron must be alloyed with minor metals to give armaments such necessary qualities as toughness and resistance to heat.

A Columbia university professor lists these as the seven major strategic materials: manganese, antimony, tungsten, chromium, nickel, mercury and tin. Of these, he says, all but antimony and tin can be obtained by developing deposits in the U. S., Canada and Cuba.

Antimony can be cooked up in the laboratories. This leaves, he believes, only tin—which comes chiefly from the East Indies—as a problem.

This week, U. S. officials revealed that a tin smelter will be established in this country to produce 18,000 tons of tin a year (one-quarter of our needs) from Bolivian tin concentrates.

Fracture Cure Speeded.

Under conventional treatment, you must stare at a ceiling for two weeks if you break a bone in the lower leg, and must stay abed for six weeks if you fracture a thigh bone.

But at the University of Louisville, surgeon Arnold Griswold and associates can have you walking now within 35 and 48 hours respectively.

They pound "skeleton pins"—small steel rods—into the broken bone at strategically located points. The pins exert pressures that bring the broken ends of bone together, and act as weight bearers when the patient walks.

Glut in Marriages.

Noting reports that marriage license bureaus have been doing a rush business since the draft first was proposed, Dr. Alexander Schneiders, psychologist of Loyola University, says:

"Any marriage that is motivated by base factors, such as fear or lust, is likely not to succeed. . . . Such motives will ever arise as a specter to haunt the married couple in future years."

But draft officials promise no discrimination. "The law operates for five years," they state, "and we don't want to stop all marriages during that time."

Some Souvenirs!

Towels, blankets, silver and knick-knacks worth a total of $10,000,000 are disappearing from U. S. hotels each year.

An official of the American Hotel Association, who makes this estimate, says rates could be lowered appreciably if souvenir-snatching would stop. Still she advises complaining managers not to try "frisking" departing guests.

Abroad

All Eyes on Turkey.

With Rumania in the Axis fold, Yugoslavia and Greece were feeling pressure in the Balkans. While Mussolini inspected troops near the frontier, Yugoslavia signed a political and economic pact with his ally, Germany.

Reports said Greece, guaranteed from attacks by Britain, had been asked to cede territory to Italy and Bulgaria.

Turkey, Soviet Russia's closest friend, was watched by the world for any evidence of the Russian policy. The Turkish press stoutly proclaimed its strong defenses against Germany. One editorial stated that "Germany has become Russia's greatest enemy" since the German-Japanese-Italian pact.

Overtures To France.

The world wondered what Britain's Winston Churchill was about when he broadcast in French that Hitler desires the "complete wiping out of the French nation," and pleaded to Frenchmen: "If you cannot help us, at least don't hinder us."

A few days later the world thought it understood.

Swiss reports said France, under German pressure, had been asked to declare war on Britain or to let the French fleet "collaborate" with the Axis. Such was to be the price of peace terms to replace the armistice.

Hitler journeyed to France and talked with short, swart Pierre Laval, French vice premier who has anti-British views.

Whether or not Churchill's speech spiked an Axis move to involve France, a French spokesman announced that France will not undertake "military, naval or aerial action against England."

Der Fuehrer continued his trip to the Spanish-French border to confer in a railway car with Spain's Generalissimo Franco—heretofore considered a holdout on Axis plans for raiding British Gibraltar.

Neighborly Mexico.

When the U. S. banged shut the door to export of scrap iron and gasoline to Japan, the Nipponese began shopping anxiously in Mexico. They offered Mexico 400,000 badly needed dollars for some scrap iron, and obtained a concession to exploit 247,000 acres of oil land in Vera Cruiz state.

But this week another door was slammed on Japan's fingers. Mexico's grave, taciturn President Cardenas spurned the offer for scrap iron and canceled the oil concession as unconstitutional.

Mexicans pointed to these moves as concrete proof that their nation was anxious to co-operate with the U. S. and other American republics in safeguarding the hemisphere.

Washington

Fateful Capsules.

Around a good-sized glass jar in an auditorium in Washington, dignitaries will gather promptly at noon, Tuesday.

President Roosevelt will speak a few words, and the jar will be filled with about 7,500 small, opaque, cobalt blue capsules. Inside each capsule will be a slip of paper with a number on it.

An attendant will stir the capsules vigorously with a red, white and blue beribboned wooden ladle. Then pale, grim Secretary of War Stimson will step up and allow himself to be blindfolded with a linen strip taken from the upholstery of a chair which stood in Independence hall when the Constitution was signed.

Thus well guarded against pecking, Stimson will lift from the jar one capsule. The "serial number" inside that capsule will immediately become "order number" one. Every man registered for the draft who was given that serial number by his local draft board this week will be the first in his area to be called up. That is, providing he isn't later given a deferred classification. (In 1917 the first serial number was 258.)

Then for 12 hours young blindfolded attendants will pick capsules from the jar till it is empty. Capsule-to-capsule results will be broadcast. By midnight, 16,400,000 registrants should know their chances of being among the 800,000 men who'll be inducted into the Army before next July.

Meanwhile reorganization of the army air corps to double its present number of combat groups and create a "highly mobile fighting force," capable of operation anywhere in the western hemisphere, was announced by the war department.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, Oct. 27.

Sunday's horoscope should be a most propitious one for all major plans and projects, particularly those pertaining to affairs of church, and state, educational as well as entertainment or amusement enterprises. These, while under a very expansive and solidifying aspect, yet may call for a fair degree of acumen, tact or diplomacy in order to placate some adverse forces or antagonisms. Deal carefully with groups or organizations. The faculties are keenly inspirational.

Those whose birthday it is should be on the threshold of a year of splendid opportunities for putting the fortunes and ambitions on a hopeful and progressive basis, with expansive and stabilizing forces giving fine impetus to new and important projects. But use finesse and cleverness when dealing with opposition, especially from large bodies or groups. The inspirational forces will assist.

A child born on this day should have much efficiency and stability for attaining high objectives in life. It will have brilliant and sound mentality supported by keen intuitions and inspirational guidance.

For Monday, Oct. 28.

Monday's astrological forecast is for a memorable day, with swift-moving and breath-taking events. This may eventuate in the emotional, romantic, or social life or may prove devastating or drastic in more material affairs. In any case be ready for uprooting, exciting and thrilling experiences, likely to culminate in unexpected success and a stabilization of the affairs, generally.

Those whose birthday it is may be surprised by a year of sudden and unforeseen events, in which a radical spading up or disintegration may supply many thrills and dynamic adventures, and culminating in sound and progressive denouements, if wisely managed. This may occur in the emotional or romantic life or in business of an unusual but constructive nature. But in all keep poised and constrained.

A child born on this day should be unusually ingenious and versatile, with creative ability of a high order, either in art, science, romantic literature. Romance and adventure loom large in its social and professional career.

College Students Not Always Adult

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

Not all who go to college are grown up. Some are infants still. Some are not far from the crib, over-dependent on their parents, emotionally unweaned. Some of these unweaned college students will have a hard time of it. A few will suffer so from homesickness that they will return to Pop and Mom. The reason given may be "ill health." And this will be the true reason—mental ill health. An adult can't have good mental health and still be a baby.

Of the thousands of youths who for the first time enter college this fall, there will be a wide variety in terms of self-reliance at one extreme and emotional dependence on the other. If one were to rate them on a scale, one would find them ranging from one extreme to the other with the bulk between, of course.

How would you rate your son or daughter on this sale? In case you are the youth, how would you rate yourself?

Here are some questions which might aid in such a rating: Who first decided that you should go to college? Who chose the college? Who collected and studied the information about this college first? Who first wrote the college?

Who planned, prepared and purchased your clothes and equipment for college? In this repsect did your parents do for you anything you could have done for yourself? Who packed the trunk and got it off to the station? Who ascertained the bus or train schedule? Who bought the ticket? Who checked the baggage? If you went by automobile, who studied the route, checked on the oil, gas, tires?

When you arrived at college, did you wire, telephone, write home for things you forgot and left behind? Who looked after paying your entrance and tuition fees? Board? Have you a budget? Have you a bank account in your own name? Or must you write home for money every time you feel the need of it? When you do write for money is the purpose you state always the true purpose?

When you write home do you present your experiences in true light or play for pity and sympathy? Suppose someone were to read your letters home or the letters of your parents to you, would they, if they did not know the facts, suppose these were letters from one adult to another?

My fellow parent of the young child: Please begin now to educate him to be ready for college or elsewhere away from home as a grown-up self-reliant person, with good habits of responsibility, ready to look after himself and make good.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"WHAT ELSE could I do?" Philip Veritzen asked defensively. "In all fairness I couldn't keep an awful thing like that a secret from her."

"Of course you couldn't," Lillian agreed quickly, "if some other person had to shoulder the blame for what you did when your mind was affected. But there is nobody in the world to be hurt except you and Olga."

"Yes, she will be hurt," he said sadly.

"No she won't," Lillian retorted, "for you're not going to tell her anything. Just look at the thing sensibly for a second. If you spill all these beans to Olga, you'll sow seeds of doubt in her mind, although she may not be conscious of it. Now you just sit still in that chair, and we'll bring her over here now, and if you speak a word out of turn to her, I'll flay you alive inch by inch. Promise you'll keep mum!"

"How can I do anything else?" he retorted, smiling in spite of himself. Then as some feeling deep within him asserted itself, he turned to me, as from the first of the colloquy I had feared he would.

"Is this your opinion also?" he said, "that I should not confess this to Olga?"

I felt Lillian's eyes "boring holes" in me, and remembered the promise she had extracted that I was not to let my "Puritan conscience" get in the way of the things—then nebulous—that she meant to say to Philip Veritzen.

"I always have found Lillian's advice wise and sound," I parried.

He looked at me steadily for an instant, started to speak, thought better of it, and Lillian put a compelling hand upon my elbow.

"There you have it, on unimpeachable authority," she said. "Now stop inviting your soul, Phil, and get yourself in shape to welcome Olga. Come along, Madge. We'll go and get her."

She swung me around and hurried me out of my room, which Philip Veritzen was to occupy during the siege of the farmhouse. But instead of proceeding directly to Olga's room, she fairly pushed me along the corridor to her own room, and put me in a chair. Then she closed and locked the door and, coming back, towered over me.

"I ought to 'slap you down'," she said sternly.

"Why! What have I done?" I countered feebly, although I knew very well what she meant.

"Don't pretend ignorance!" she snapped. "I told you to throttle that Puritan conscience, but when Phil asked your opinion about his confession—he probably thought with truth that your soul is whiter, purer, and loftier than mine and more to be trusted in a moral emergency—what did you do? Did you back me up? No, you only bleated out a left-handed compliment to me that wouldn't have deceived a six-months-old baby, and certainly didn't fool Phil."

"I didn't mean to spoil things," I said miserably, "and the worst of it is that one part of me agreed with what you said."

"You'd better cultivate that part," she said, "and let the other atrophy. It's a relic of days that are long gone, and it's sure a handicap in this modern world."

She had ranted herself back to good humor, and she suddenly turned her irresistible cheery smile on me.

"You know I don't mean half that I say," she said, "and I'm sure there's no harm done. Phil's soul isn't so dauntless that he isn't willing to welcome my dictum that he must confess nothing to Olga. So the royal romance is safe! How about it? Are you up to a call on the 'queen'?"

Her mimicry of Katie, as always, brought a smile to my lips, and I rose with alacrity.

"Do you think I'd miss it?" I answered.

"One never knows," she murmured provocatively, but I ignored the gibe, and together we went down the corridor to the room where the exiled queen of Transylania awaited us.

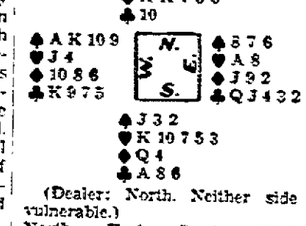
"The Authority on Authorities"

IT IS NOT GUESSING

Thoughtless players guess frequently as to the way a particular suit should be played. There are times when even the best must do this, but they do not occur often. Nearly always there is some indication regarding the likely location of missing cards. When there are none, there still is the good old standby, probability, to serve as a guide. When there are no counter indications, it is better to have probability on your side, rather than against you.



(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1♠	Pass	1♥	1♠
2♥	Pass	3♥	Pass
4♥

There is nothing to the making of this contract except playing the trump suit sanely. West took his spade K and A, and, for lack of a better lead, offered a third round to the dummy's Q.

South made a study of the situation, and decided to become brilliant. He reckoned that, with West having only a four-card spade suit, he must have quite a bit of honor strength, and hence was pretty likely to hold the heart A. In fact, it might be a singleton, with East holding three headed by the J. So, to protect himself against this, he promptly led a small heart to the third trick and played the 10. When the J won this, he was fit to be tied. The heart A, of course, furnished the setting trick a bit later.

North gave South a very simple lesson. If he was going to play West for a singleton A and East for three headed by the J, he should have played the Q from dummy first. That would have given him protection against the situation that did exist and also against the one his hunch made him fear.

Your Week-End Lesson.

Do you understand the type of lead throwing end-play on which an opponent is obliged to make a return which enables you to discard a loser from your hand or dummy while ruffing in the other hand? Can you set up an example of it?

Nagger's Face Never Beautiful

By MME. QUI VIVE

You can spot the nagger's face the moment you look at it. Eyes sharp and piercing. Expression critical and petulant. Why don't these women realize that what goes on inside the mind and heart pops out on the countenance? What's the value of the flawless complexion, the beautifully arranged coiffure, gorgeous and costly dry goods, if a woman looks mean and sour? She might just as well chuck cosmetics out of the window, settle down to a state of unattractiveness.

We all know the nagger. She bawls out her husband at the bridge game. She tells of his faults, which is silly business since nobody is interested and the listener just feels sorry for the poor creature who is being humiliated.

Fault-finding never improved any man's behaviour. It accomplishes nothing. Bawling and weeping won't get a woman anywhere, either. The right line to take is to be good-natured in spite of everything. One should follow that course for one's own sake because family disturbances wreck the health, murder good looks, have a devastating effect upon the nervous system.

The wife spends hours preparing a nice dinner. The husband doesn't telephone, trails in an hour or two late. The young wife is hurt and disappointed, makes a scene. Not so the experieiced lady who has it happen many times. She dishes up her own meal—after waiting a reasonable time—reads her mystery story while she is eating it. She clears up the dishes, puts the dinner away. Papa can get out a can of beans for himself. Or maybe she produces a sandwich and a cup of coffee. If she says anything at all, it is, "It doesn't matter, old fellow. I didn't mind," and goes about her own affairs.

There are good husbands and mean ones, as there are good wives and horrid ones. Human faults don't care who has them, men or woman. Marriage is a matter of give and take. Sometimes one side gives all, the other one takes all. If you happen to be a giver, don't worry about it.

August Marriage Disclosed Today

Announcement was made today of the marriage of Miss Lois Ida Mentzer, daughter of Mrs. Nettie Mentzer, 348 East Fourth street, to Harvey H. Dent, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Dent, 142 Buckingham street. The double ring ceremony was performed at the altar of the Methodist church at Fredericksburg, Va. Aug. 19 with Rev. C. R. Claggett officiating.

The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Mentzer, brother and sister-in-law of the bride. They are now at home to friends at the East Fourth street address.

The former Miss Mentzer is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school, and has been employed at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company. Mr. Dent also attended the high school and is employed by Hayden, Riggs and Dent.

Here's Text of Lewis Radio Speech Endorsing Willkie for President

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Following is the text of John L. Lewis' speech on the radio last night:

I address all Americans. Our country is at one of the crossroads of its political destiny. The issues run deep and will inevitably affect the well being and lives of every American. They will also affect the population of every other civilized country and may well determine the stability or instability of all the free institutions of our present day culture.

I am conscious of the degree of responsibility which attaches to my words. I am a qualified representative of many organizations of labor and other groups of citizens of labor not necessary to enumerate them, since my listeners are familiar with their identity.

Suffice it to say that the direct and affiliated membership of these several organizations amounts to substantially 10,000,000 men and women. Adding to this number the numerical strength of their dependent families, there is achieved a sum total of human beings amounting to approximately one-fourth of the total population of our nation.

Abandoning my right to speak officially for this great segment of our population, I choose to speak tonight only in the role of a citizen and an American. I do so in all the pride of my heritage, and with a desire to protect and preserve that heritage, and likewise the heritage of my peers.

Accordingly, tonight, I do not speak for labor, but on the contrary, I speak to labor and to all my countrymen. I do not control the vote of any one man or woman. I have no power and no influence except in so far as those who believe in me may accept my recommendations.

On Sept. 4, 1939, in a public radio address, I said "the nation cannot forever continue its appalling drift . . . thoughtless and sadly executed experimentation will not always suffice to beguile a suffering people. The internal national debt has already reached such proportions that it may never be liquidated by orthodox methods.

In the face of the economic debacle in America, many of our statesmen are more concerned and agitated over the political quarrels in Europe.

War has always been the device of the politically despairing and intellectually sterile statesmen. It provides employment in the gun factories and begets enormous profits for those already rich. It kills off the vigorous males who, if permitted to live, might question the financial exploitation of the race. Above all, war perpetuates in imperishable letters on the scroll of fame and history, the names of its political creators and managers."

The foregoing statement constitutes the first basis of my personal opposition to the re-election of President Roosevelt for a third term as chief executive of the republic. Those who hear these words, and who have studied the public addresses of the president, from his Chicago "quarantine speech" to his Charlottesville "stab in the back" address, and thence to Dayton and Philadelphia, will understand his motivation and his objective. It is war. His every act leads one to this inescapable conclusion.

The president has said that he hates war and will work for peace, but his acts do not match his words.

I am opposed to any involvement of our country in foreign wars. I believe that every thoughtful and normal citizen is similarly opposed. They are willing, as I am willing, to contribute everything for any necessary defense of our geographical integrity, our families, our possessions, our liberties and our lives.

The flaming horror of the current war now engulfs many nations. Reason would seem to prompt a course of national action designed to restrict and abate the war, rather than to expand and intensify its scope and destruction.

Power Concentration.

The present concentration of power in the office of the president of the United States has never before been equalled in the history of our country. His powers and influence in the republic are so far-reaching that they intimately and vitally affect the lives and fortunes of every citizen. In like measure, they may affect the lives and fortunes of other nations and their populations.

How startling therefore, is the spectacle of a president who does not hesitate to surrender that power, in keeping with the traditions of the republic. The suggestion of a third term under these conditions is less than wholesome or healthful. Personal craving for power is a thing to alarm and [illegible].

Eminent Americans have analyzed this principle in a manner that should bring conviction to the heart of every questioner. No citizen with the proper regard for the maintenance of orderly temperate and considerate government should lightly endow any politician or statesman with a brief of authority that, for all practical considerations, runs in perpetuity.

Power for what? [illegible] official power to what ends in all history the unanimous decree of continuously vested authority has brought [illegible] political and social [illegible] for which humanity has [illegible] appalling price in loss of [illegible] in disorder, tragedy and [illegible].

America needs no such men. It needs the philosophy that aims to the dedication of the [illegible] America wants no royal family.

Our forebears paid the price in blood, agony, privation and sorrow, requisite for the building of this republic. Are we now to cast away that priceless liberty, which is our heritage? Are we to yield to the appetite for power and the vaunting ambitions of a man who plays with the lives of human beings for a pastime?

I say "No." And whether I stand alone, or whether I am sustained, as I think I will be by the overwhelming number of American citizens, I should retain these convictions. It is time for the manhood and the womanhood of America to assert themselves. Tomorrow may be too late.

If President Roosevelt is re-established in office in the forthcoming election, he will answer to no man, including the Congress, for his executive acts, that may create a dictatorship in this land. This election may be historically comparable to the controlled elections and plebiscites of some of the nations of the Old World. I ask my countrymen to pause briefly and think deeply before the die is cast on this grave issue.

Campaign Financing.

On Jan. 24, 1940, at Columbus, O., in a public address, I said in part, as follows:

"In 1936 coalition was effected between the Democratic party and organized labor. The resources of both interests were pooled—the objective being the return of the party to power in the election of the same year.

Organized labor furnished money, speakers, party workers in every political division and many millions of votes. It substantially financed the national committee, various state committees, congressional committees, Labor's Non-Partisan League, the American Labor party, the progressive national committee and the Good Neighbor League.

"Psychologically and politically organized labor created the atmosphere of success that returned the Democratic party to power with an ample margin of safety.

"A political coalition, at least, presupposes a post-election good faith between the coalescent interests. The Democratic party and its leadership have not preserved this faith. In the last three years, labor has not been given representation in the cabinet, nor in the administration or policy-making agencies of government. The current administration has not sought nor seriously entertained the advice or views of labor upon the question of national unemployment or lesser questions affecting domestic economy, internal taxation, foreign trade, military and naval expansion, relations with foreign nations or the issues of war or peace.

"Labor today has no point of contact with the Democratic administration in power, except for casual and occasional interviews which are granted its individual leaders. In the congress, the unrestrained baiting and defaming of labor by the Democratic majority has become a pastime, never subject to rebuke by the titular or actual leaders of the party.

"As the current year opens, the Democratic party is in default to the American people. After seven years of power, it finds itself without solution for the major questions of unemployment, low national income, mounting internal debt, increasing direct and consumer taxation and restricted foreign markets. There still exists the same national unhappiness that it faced seven years ago."

The foregoing indictment has never been answered or refuted, nor successfully denied by any single spokesman for the Democratic party or the Roosevelt administration. They cannot gainsay the cold, stark facts of that record. There is no spokesman in the Democratic party, or in the Roosevelt administration, intellectually capable of this task.

If this be true, what of the future? President Roosevelt is asking the American people to contribute to him at least four more years out of their individual lives. What will he do with those lives and this nation in the next four years, and how does he propose to do it? He has not said and he asks from the people a grant of discretionary power that would bind him to no course of action except the unpredictable policies and adventures which he may later devise.

After all, Americans are not a nation of guinea pigs constantly subject to the vicissitudes of the economic and political experiments of an amateur, ill-equipped practitioner in the realm of political science.

One of the most eminent of [illegible] political utterances [illegible] public attention to [illegible] that there were 35 [illegible] hungry people in America, [illegible] sequel [illegible] president [illegible] to [illegible] answer for the statement [illegible] served that the problem [illegible] no relationship to the program [illegible] national defense.

It is not necessarily stupid that 9,000,000 people [illegible] United States are able to spend only 5 cents per meal [illegible] or the astounding [illegible] 000 people in the [illegible] ing from insufficient food and malnourishment, 2,000,000 of them are required to live on an annual expenditure of 15 cents a day. This is a land of plenty, with its agricultural granaries overflowing with surplus farm commodities, which the farmer is unable to sell. Where now are the tears for the "ill-housed, ill-clothed and ill-fed?"

The Roosevelt administration is trying to create prosperity by the making of guns and lethal weapons. It points to the increased volume of production. It forgets to state that the productivity of the individual worker has vastly increased since 1929, and that increased volume does not correspondingly mean increased employment of workers.

It forgets to state that there are 9,115 000 men and women in America still unemployed, and that the national defense program of production, when it it reaches its maximum, will fall 5,000,000 short of providing employment for all.

The administration spokesmen forget to say what will happen to economic America when the 25,000,000 men now under arms in foreign nations, and the 70,000,000 citizens who service these armies, are returned to peaceful pursuits.

The manufacturers of America and the workers of America will then have to compete in the remaining world market with the quantitative production of foreign nations, whose workmen will occupy the relative economic and social status of chattel slaves.

Where will our country then sell its goods? Surely not in Europe, nor in the Baltic or Mediterranean areas. Surely not in Africa or the Orient. Surely, it is obvious that South American markets will be penetrated by the cheap labor products of the world commercial adversaries of the United States of America. What is being done by the Roosevelt administration to safeguard our population from such an impending economic disaster?

What is being done to modernize the marketing methods of the United States in foreign trade territories, so as to compete with the changed rules of international commerce?

As a literal fact, the record of the last seven years is proof sufficient that the Roosevelt administration in nonchalant and this situation and maintaining this nation's rightful share of world commerce. And yet, this administration in nonchalent and sprightly fashion, bluntly asks the American people to grant it at least an additional four years of power, so it can continue to toy with the lives of men and the destiny of nations.

Indorses Willkie.

If not Roosevelt, whom do I recommend to do the job of making secure our nation and its people? Why, of course, I recommend the election of Wendell L. Willkie as the next president of the United States.

He is a gallant American. He has opened his heart to the American people. He is not an aristocrat. He has the common touch. He was born in the briar and not to the purple. He has worked with his hands, and has known the pangs of hunger. He has had experience in various fields of American enterprise, and is an administrator and an executive.

Some sources have suggested that I should withhold my support of Mr. Willkie because Messrs. Grace, Girdler and Weir were allegedly supporting him. This is specious reasoning. One could as well suggest that the communicants of a particular faith should leave their church because of the presence of a hypocrite in their midst. Aside from this, these gentlemen must possess some virtue, because President Roosevelt has awarded them many fat and lucrative government contracts, at the expense of the public purse.

I may also add in passing, that it is a reasonable hope that these gentlemen, acting in their corporate capacities, will soon execute collective bargaining contracts with the C. I. O.

Wendell Willkie has said that he will put the unemployed to work; that he will abolish pauperism. He has said that he will increase the national income by working to increase the wages and incomes of those unemployed.

He says that he will enlist the representative brains of the nation to do this job. He says that he will take the representatives of labor into his cabinet and into the policy-making agencies of government, to assist and co-operate in the economic rehabilitation of America.

He has said that he will reduce the cost of operation of our government, and thus reduce the taxes imposed upon individual citizens.

He has said that he believes in, and will enforce the right of labor to organize, and will promote collective bargaining between industry and labor.

He has said that he will preserve and maintain all social legislation previously enacted for the protection of labor and any other citizen.

Wendell Willkie has given his guarantee to the American people that if elected president, he will not send the sons of American mothers and American fathers to fight in foreign wars. He says that he will not use the power and influence of his mammoth political machine to promote or create war, but rather to use the power and influence to abate war and promote and maintain peace between nations.

This statement of principles and objectives entitles Mr. Willkie to the support of every thoughtful citizen.

Can he accomplish such a task, many will ask. It is my considered judgment that if Wendell Willkie is elected president, this task can, and will be done.

Can we believe Mr. Willkie, some will ask. I reply that I have confidence in Mr. Willkie's integrity and honor. I do not think the he would wittingly deceive the people, or lead them astray for selfish purposes. He is a strong man. He is strong enough to enlist the services of other strong men to do the job of saving our nation, whether from attack by external foes, or disintegration from disunity within.

For long years, I have served the men and women of labor. While serving them, I have ever sought also to serve my country and all its citizenry. I have been able to carry on, only because my acts were sustained by the confidence of the millions who stand behind me.

The words I utter tonight represent my mature conclusions and my sincere convictions. They are expressed, because I believe that the men and women of labor, and all other Americans, are entitled to know the truth as I see it.

I think the re-election of President Roosevelt for a third term would be a national evil of the first magnitude. He no longer hears the cries of the people. I think that the election of Mr. Wendell Willkie is imperative in relation to the country's needs. I commend him to the men and women of labor, and to the nation, as one worthy of their support, and as one who will capably and zealously protect their rights, increase their privileges and restore their happiness.

Retire If F. D. R. Wins.

It is obvious that President Roosevelt will not be re-elected for the third term, unless he has the overwhelming support of the men and women of labor. If he is, therefore, re-elected, it will mean that the members of the Congress of Industrial Organizations have rejected my advice and recommendation.

I will accept the result as being the equivalent of a vote of no confidence, and will retire as president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, at its convention in November. This action will save our great movement, composed of men and women, from the embarrassment and handicap of my leadership during the ensuing reign of President Roosevelt.

To the leaders of the C. I. O., its executives, staff officers and field representatives, I know, and have worked with each of you. I have bestowed the honors which you now wear. Through the years of struggle, you have been content that I should be in the forefront of your battles.

I am still the same man. Sustain me now, or repudiate me. I will not chide you, and will even hope that you will not regret your action.

To the mine workers of the nation, who know me best, and who have always been the shock troops in the forward march of labor, I say it is best for you, and for those you love, to help oppose the creation of a political distatorship in free America.

To the steel workers, the automobile workers, the shipbuilders, the maritime workers, the lumber workers in the far northwest, the textile workers, the white collar workers and the men and women of labor in the miscellaneous industries, I say I have worked for you and have fought for you. Believe me now, when I say that your interests, and the interests of the families you support, lie in acceptance of the truth of the words I speak tonight.

To the farmers of the nation, I say that I know something of your problems. I was born and reared in an agricultural state. You cannot be prosperous while the urban and industrial population is idle and debased. The national income must be increased, so that your crops will move to market at prices that will sustain you. Your interest lies in aggressive support of Mr. Willkie.

To the youth of America, many of whom will cast their first vote in November, I say that the road of opportunity for you lies in the election of Wendell Willkie for president. Surely, you wish to preserve the privileges, for which your elders and your forebears fought. Surely, you wish to widen the horizon of opportunity for yourselves and your contemporary citizens.

To the members of the Negro race in our northern states, I say your incomes as a group are the lowest; your living conditions are the poorest; your unemployment is the highest; discrimination against you is the worst. Surely, you have no cause to believe that President Roosevelt is an indispensable man; and surely you believe that Wendell Willkie can, and will, do more for you than has been done in the past seven years. As a proven friend of the Negro race, I urge you to vote for Willkie.

You millons of young men, who have qualified for the peacetime military draft, have you cause to rejoice? You, who may be about to die in a foreign war, created at the whim of an international meddler, should you salute your Caesar? In cold, common sense, I think you should vote for Willkie.

You members of the Christian church, why should you vote for and support the man who ignores home considerations and practices the modern sorcery of war mongering?

Labor and the Christian church are the first victims of the social and political convulsions which follow war and one-man government.

To the women of our race, I say perhaps you can do the greatest part of all. May I hope that on election day, the mothers of our sons will, with the sacred ballot, lead the revolt against the candidate who plays at a game that may make cannon fodder of your sons.

For myself, it matters not. I do not fear the braves of the Roosevelt administration. I fear only for our country. I am joining with Mr. Willkie in trying to do my part. I shall believe, my countrymen, that you will do likewise.

Good night.

Massillon Turns Back Stubborn Mansfield Team, 38-0

Tigers Held at Bay In Initial Period By Club

Coach Paul Snyder's Aggregation Plays Inspired Ball Against Tigers.

By CHARLES MARTIN, News-Journal Sports Editor.

MANSFIELD HIGH suffered its second defeat of the season under the floodlights at Stadium field last night but the 7,200 spectators who watched the grid team lose were not disappointed.

Coach Paul Snyder's Tyger gridsters tangled with the undefeated and untied Massillon juggernaut and put up their greatest battle of the year as they dropped a 38 to 0 decision.

Massillon invaded Stadium field sporting one of the most impressive records ever marked up by one of its teams and the Tygers were not supposed to do much in holding the score down.

But when it was over every fan praised the work of the Mansfield combine in limiting Massillon to six touchdowns.

To a few witnesses it might not have been impressive, but one look at the records should change their opinion.

The Massillon outfit had chalked up six straight wins before coming here and had averaged 58 points a game. In only one game—against Alliance—did the club score less than 48 points. Massillon beat Alliance 40 to 0.

Mentor Snyder saw his proteges play heads-up ball during the entire contest. Not once did the Tygers let down as they turned loose one of the finest passing attacks unleashed this year.

Although they went down to defeat, the Tygers accomplished two feats no other team has against Massillon. Mansfield is the first aggregation to mark up a first down before the Tigers and the stout Tyger defense in the first chapter made Massillon punt twice in a row—something it hadn't done before.

Massillon completely throttled the Tygers' running attack, and while Mansfield failed to penetrate inside the visitors' 38, its aerial bombardment was causing considerable trouble.

After seeing their attack bog down in the initial stanza the Massillon players began clicking and pushed over two touchdowns each in the next three chapters.

Dick Adams, who scored three of the touchdowns, Tom James, Fred Blunt and Horace Gillom were the principal ground gainers once the Massillon outfit started moving.

Every one of the Tigers' markers were scored on long marches, the longest coming in the fourth frame when they drove 76 yards after receiving a Mansfield punt.

Other touchdowns were chalked up on marches of 45, 62, 60, 49, and 37 yards.

Near the end of the first period Massillon opened up from the Mansfield 45-yard line. Two first downs placed the pigskin on Tyger 14 as the chapter ended.

Adams, subbing for James, dashed through the right side of the Mansfield line on a cutback from the eight-yard line for the first tally. Ray Getz' placement for the extra point was wide.

Mansfield found it impossible to chalk up gains through the heavier Massillon line and shortly after the next kickoff the club was on their way again.

The Tygers moved to Massillon's 38 on the next kickoff with a passing attack and a fumble at this point was recovered by Jim Russell.

Three successive first downs put the ball on Mansfield's one-yard line and Getz went around right and into pay dirt. His kick for the point split the uprights. And the half ended with Massillon leading, 13 to 0.

James, regular left halfback, came into the game to spark the Tigers' to their next touchdown in the third. The club went 60 yards with James going over from the Mansfield two. Getz' plunge for the point was stopped cold.

A little later Larry Cardinal, Masillon tackle, recovered another Mansfield fumble on the Tygers 49. Tdo first downs were registered and Adams passed to Gillom in the end zone from the Mansfield 24. Getz added the point from placement.

Adams climaxed Massillon's 76-yard drive early in the fourth frame by scooting over from the Mansfield one, and he also added the final score after his teammates drove 37 yards. Getz' two placements were low and wide.

Immediately after the last touchdown Coach Brown sent in his second team, but Mansfield was unable to get its aerial offense working in the remaining three minutes.

John Weber, junior guard and Martin Henke played spectacular ball for the Tygers. Both were outstanding on defense. Every member of the team, however, turned in creditable performances.

Mansfield lost 15 yards from rushing plays, while Massillon was registering 260. The Tygers also held the edge in nearly every department.

Massillon gained 77 yards on passes to Mansfield's 33. The Tygers did edge the winners in pass completions, 11 to 4. Gillom gave a brilliant demonstration of punting, averaging 51 yards. Two of his kicks traveled 66 yards. Mansfield averaged 30 yards on punts.

The Mansfield band strutted its stuff in its new uniforms for the first time before the game opened last night. Massilion's swing band took over the stage during the intermission.

News-Journal Camera Catches Action In Grid Tilt

Here is Ray Getz, Massillon halfback, in the picture at the left, as he dashed around Mansfield's right end for 14 yards and his team's second touchdown in the second period of the Massillon-Mansfield game at Stadium field last night. Massillon turned back the Tygers, 38 to 0, before some 7,200 fans, one of the largest gatherings ever to see a Mansfield team in action. Martin Henke, No. 22, Tyger fullback, is tackling Getz. Others in the picture are Bill Dietzel, No. 28, center, and Bob Winbigler, No. 47, end, of Mansfield, and Bill Wallace, No. 11, Massillon guard. Horace Gillom, Massillon's great colored end, at the right, who was selected on the All-Ohio scholastic eleven last season, is shown as he raced from the Madison 29 to the 14 on an end-around in the second period to set the stage for the Tigers' first score. Bill Peeth, No. 45, Mansfield guard, forced Gillom out of bounds. Keve Bray, No. 50, Massillon end, is on the ground.

Presidents Hand Whippets 1st Defeat In 7 Games In NCO Contest.

MARION — Shelby high school was dropped from the list of Ohio undefeated and untied scholastic elevens here last night when it was drubbed 19 to 6 by the Marion high school Presidents before a crowd estimated at 5,000.

The loss was the first of the season for the Whippets in seven starts and also cost them undisputed possession of first place in the North Central Ohio conference.

Up until last night Shelby had won three conference tilts to pace the other N. C. O. elevens. Last week they gained the league lead by trouncing Mt. Vernon 17 to 6 while Marion bowed to Bucyrus in an upset, 16 to 6.

Shelby failed to get its scoring machine to work, and was not able to score its lone touchdown until the final period. Meanwhile Marion scored twice in the second quarter and once in the final.

Whitney scored the Whippets' lone tally, running over from the two yard stripe, after catching the ball when Daugherty knocked it into the air in attempting to receive a long pass from Laubie. Daugherty's kick for extra point was wide.

The Presidents' first touchdown came early in the second period, after a 45-yard drive took the ball to Shelby's 10-yard stripe from where Hurst carried it over. Petty's place kick for extra point was no good.

A 20-yard run by Roberts set up Marion's second scoring opportunity in the second period. Marion worked the ball from the 18 to one-yard stripe in a series of drives, from where Petty went over for the score.

Another long Marion drive, this one for 40 yards, early in the fourth period to place the ball on Shelby's six, set the stage for the Presidents' last tally.

Hurst carried the ball over from the six and Short's place kick for extra point was good.

Shelby missed a scoring opportunity late in the second period, when they had the ball on Marion's four-yard line, but the half ended before they had a chance for another play.

Marion ran up 15 first downs and Shelby six.

CANDIDATES FOR LEGISLATURE IN 4TH OF SERIES

Wagner, Democrat, And Catlett, Republican, Have Careers Along Similar Lines.

(Editor's Note: This is the fourth in a series of articles designed to better acquaint News-Journal readers with candidates seeking county and district public offices at the Nov. 5 election.)

County representative to the Ohio general assembly is literally a liaison officer between the citizens of the county and the legislative forces of the state.

Representatives from every county in the state make up the lower body, or the "house," of the general assembly. The lower body, together with that of the higher body, or senate, pass the laws and are largely instrumental in setting up the policies that govern the state.

Richland counties two candidates for this office this year have careers that are strikingly similar. Here are thumbnail biographies of both of them:

Leslie K. Wagner, native of Mansfield and also an attorney is the Democratic candidate . . . New in the political field, Wagner attended public schools here, and later was graduated from Ohio State school of administration and from the University of Cincinnati law school . . . Went to Europe in 1930 for a year's study abroad . . . Worked way through school with jobs at Mansfield Tire and Westinghouse . . . Is a member of First Lutheran church where he teaches a Sunday school class . . . Member of University club, J. A. C., Chamber of Commerce, and is treasurer of Richland County Bar association . . . Practiced law two years.

Republican candidate is John L. Catlett. Mansfield attorney, and also a newcomer in the political arena . . . Born at Wellsville and graduated from Ohio State college of arts and sciences and Law school . . . As an Eagle Scout was one of America's representatives at World Boy Scout Jamboree in England in 1929 . . . Worked way through college as radio announcer . . . Member of First Presbyterian church and affiliated with the Masonic, Eagles and Elks lodges, University club, J. A. C. and Chamber of Commerce . . . Has been secretary of Richland County Fish and Game association for two years . . . Practiced law two years.

WILLKIE LAUDS LEWIS' STAND

the address of the C. I. O. head denouncing Mr. Roosevelte's candidacy. However, he listened later to a transcription in his private car, and said he was "naturally gratified."

"As I have said many times of late," he added, "If American democracy is to survive, the people of America must unite themselves in a great voluntary movement to strengthen this nation.

"We must have an end of group and class warfare. Mr. Lewis' eloquent and unqualified enlistment in our crusade is a great stride toward bringing the spontaneous unity of action and purpose that will follow soon as we are elected.

"I believe that our election will draw all the elements of American society into a great united movement to make America impregnable in its domestic economy and in its defense. It is that manner that we shall save the most precious thing left in this war-torn world—the free way of life in America.

In his late evening radio talk, broadcast nationally from his campaign train at the Wilkes-Barre station, he pitched his voice low to try to overcome the huskiness.

Saying extemporaneously that he wanted President Roosevelt to reply to several questions in his "next political speech," Willkie declared in his prepared text that he wanted the chief executive to repeat his pledge to keep the country out of foreign wars.

"I sincerely hope," he said, "that on some future occasion the third term candidate will not tell the reporters that as of the day he made that pledge he had no intention of going to war.

"The American people want promises that will last."

BIG UNDERWRITERS

PHILADELPHIA — (U.P.) — The $1,000,000 Round-Table, consisting of men who have written that much insurance, now has 151 members. Of the group, it was revealed at the convention of National Association of Life Underwriters, the majority are married, college graduates and believe that business will be "good" the coming year.

MUSIC IN COWBARN

TRINIDAD, Colo.—(U.P.)—Myron Spencer, who argued that music had "the charm to soothe the savage beast" in dairy cattle, said a swing band heard on the radio in his barn induced his Jersey herd to produce an extra pint of cream daily. Two other farmers installed radios and phonographs in their barns.

NAVY DAY PLANS

Visitors Allowed on Training Vessels Tomorrow.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — An extended observance of the "most momentous" navy day, as Secretary Knox described it, opened today with the nation well launched on a program of warship construction designed to give the United States command of the seas.

Although the date officially designated by Knox as "navy day" is tomorrow, the navy planned a three-day observance, starting this afternoon with ceremonies here at the monument of John Paul Jones, the revolutionary war hero and "father" of American sea power.

Training vessels were ordered to receive visitors Sunday and local drills and demonstrations were arranged but, as was the case a year ago, general visiting to vessels of the fleet and to busy navy yards was prohibited. Dinners, speeches and other local demonstrations were scheduled for Monday.
